

STEPHEN LAWRENCE DAY 2022

Essay Competition

On 22 April 1993, Stephen Lawrence was senselessly murdered in an unprovoked, racist attack. He wanted to be an architect, but his life and dreams were, tragically, cut short.

Stephen's life and legacy are celebrated annually on 22 April. This year, the focus of the day is on empowering young people to live their best lives, to value and embrace diversity, and to challenge racism and discrimination.

We want you to achieve your career dreams, by helping under-represented individuals to become, and succeed as barristers.

The Question

What law would you change or enact to help young people to live their best lives?
